WHAT IS MICROFIBRE

Micro fibre is a synthetic Fibre that is microscopic compared to natural fibres. Ultra microfibres are 100 times smaller than human hair and there structures give a surface area 40 times greater than conventional cotton fibre. A positive charge attracts dust which has a negative charge like a huge magnet, the fibres lock in the dust which is not fully released until proper laundering

QUESTION

Can you use to much solution with Microfibre?

Yes to much water or solution will leave residuals behind like any other mop. Microfibre cleaning should be done with as little water as possible. The drier the fibre the more it can pick up and hold
